Understanding Power Purchase Agreements (PPAs) A Power Purchase Agreement (PPA) is a long-term contract between an energy producer and a buyer, typically a utility, large corporation, or government entity. The agreement stipulates the terms under which the energy produced by the power plant will be sold to the buyer.

The storage system will allow for the stabilization of QIT Madagascar Minerals power grid. "The Government of Madagascar is committed to the energy transition and to achieving energy self-sufficiency for Madagascar, as outlined in the Initiative for the Emergence of Madagascar (IEM).

Mapping hydropower potential in Madagascar. A World Bank-led project in Madagascar seeks to map the country's small hydropower potential at a detailed level. Hydropower is one of the most promising sources of power for a country where a lack of domestic energy production has placed major constraints on development.

Utility company Jirama powers Madagascar and has a Power Purchase Agreement (PPA) with our customer, fuel supplier Jovena. The island's power comes from a mix of diesel, Heavy Fuel Oil (HFO) and hydro power stations, but summer droughts hampered hydro generation and their other plants were ageing and not as efficient as might be hoped.

The parties signed a 20-year power purchase agreement (PPA) in July. The solar installation, consisting of about 18,000 panels, will go on stream next year, while the wind farm, made up of four turbines, will be completed in 2023. The plant will also feature an 8.25-MW lithium-ion battery energy storage system.
